XDR is a hot buzzword, with many in the cybersecurity industry trying to define it. In a fast-paced and self-aware look at our industry, GuidePoint Security Government Solutions will trace back where the term comes from and how it fits in the broader landscape of initiatives the DoD is trying to solve. We will look at different approaches to implementing XDR, focused on direct API integrations vs. agnostic automation-based solutions, and how each approach affects the implementation, functionality, and long-term management of XDR systems.
