

Mr. Bocon is a Systems Engineering Fellow in the Space and Airborne Systems Business of Raytheon Company. He has over thirty years' experience designing, developing and testing complex military communications systems, with a focus on satellite communications terminals. He also has considerable experience in line-of-sight communications. Mr. Bocon has authored/co-authored several papers on communications topics and given numerous presentations. He has a B.S.E.E. and an MSEE, both from Syracuse University.

Mr. Bocon has been a long time participant in MILCOM conferences as is honored to have served as the Technical Program Chairman for MILCOM in 2014 and 2008.