

Qinqing (Christine) Zhang is currently the Chief Scientist of Cyber Physical Security in the System Department at United Technologies Research Center (UTRC), leading strategy and capability development to support the full range of United Technologies Corp. (UTC) products and programs. She is also an Associate Research Professor in the Computer Science Department at Johns Hopkins University (JHU). Previously, Dr. Zhang was with Johns Hopkins University, Applied Physics Laboratory (JHU/APL) from 2007 to 2016, serving various technical and management leadership roles, most recently as an Acting Assistant Group Supervisor and Assistant Program Manager. She was an Assistant Director at University of Southern California, Information Sciences Institute, while taking a leave from JHU/APL during 2013 – 2015. Before JHU/APL, she was with Bell Labs, Alcatel-Lucent Technologies in New Jersey from 1998 to 2007.

Dr. Zhang has been an active contributor to the IEEE MILCOM conferences. She was the Technical Program Chair of MILCOM 2015, Deputy Technical Program Chair of MILCOM 2014, Unclassified Technical Program Chair of MILCOM 2012. She currently serves on the MILCOM Conference Board. Dr. Zhang has authored one book, three book chapters, and more than 50 publications in IEEE journals and conferences. She holds 25 US patents and 5 European patents.